▶ EMPOWERING OTHERS THROUGH EFFECTIVE KNOWLEDGE SHARING AND MANAGEMENT

Numerous governments, intergovernmental organizations, research consortia, think tanks and academic institutions are actively generating green growth knowledge products. The Green Growth Knowledge Platform (GGKP) aims to collect, manage and share this knowledge through its web-based knowledge platform, GreenGrowthKnowledge.org. The platform includes the following features:

- Searchable e-library with over 600 relevant technical and policy resources tagged by country, region, sector and theme, providing users quick and easy access to the publications most relevant to them.
- Global database of green growth projects by leading organizations and institutions.
- Insights blog offering details and analysis on the newest innovations in green growth theory and practice by leading international experts.
- Country dashboards for 193 countries with key information on national-level data, projects, resources and policies providing an overview of efforts to transition to a green economy.
- A collection of over 25 sector and theme pages drawing together information on relevant resources, projects and blogs.
- Updates on green growth events and recently released research, tools and data.
